

EUROPEAN CME CREDITS IN RUSSIA!

We are pleased to announce that from 2017 onwards the Russian Society of Cardiology is determined to receive an accreditation by the European Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (EACCME®) for all RSC meetings. It means that participating in a Congress or an educational forum held by the Russian Society of Cardiology you can receive a certain number of European external CME credits. European CME credits (ECMEC) received at our educational events will be summed up with those received at the European meetings.
